

In partnership with the Structural Timber Association,
the Structural Timber Conference is taking place on 01 October 2025
at the National Conference Centre, Birmingham.

Designed for a diverse audience, including architects, engineers, clients, contractors, local authorities, housebuilders and developers – the event provides a first-hand look at cutting-edge technologies and designs shaping the future of UK timber usage.

As demand for more sustainable structures continues to grow, the conference invites industry professionals to dive deep into the current state of the timber industry and contribute to redefining the future of offsite timber construction.

BOOK YOUR TICKETS

Following a year of remarkable achievements and innovations, the conference promises to showcase the benefits and explore the possibilities of timber construction. With influential speakers and engaging discussions, the Structural Timber Conference 2025 will address the challenges, present solutions and analyse successes, that help drive the industry forward.
